BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

A sign-up sheet for those interested in forming a Lesbian and Gay Community Center was presented to attendees at the 1992 Pride Festival, and from this emerged The Lesbian and Gay Community Center of Kansas City (LGCKC), which was incorporated by the end of the year. As stated in its bylaws, the purpose of the Center is “to establish and maintain a community center for the good of the lesbian and gay community and their friends; to provide a safe place in which person of that community can interact and grow educationally, emotionally, and spiritually; and to provide and support groups who will address the ongoing needs of the lesbian, gay and allied communities.” This mission was directly addressed initially by the development of “Councils” that addressed specific needs, e.g. Support Groups, Lesbian Alliance, Community Development, and Social Service. Out of these Councils grew several notable projects, including the Lydia Moore Lesbian Health Project and the Greater Kansas City Queer Community Oral History Project.

Outreach is a particular strength of the organization. The most notable example of these types of efforts was the “Out in Westport” event, held on the second Sunday in October to coincide with National Coming Out Day. Out in Westport began in 1994 as a combination community awareness fair and opportunity to patronize gay-owned and gay-friendly businesses in the district. Over time it grew in popularity, to the point that the fair component grew so large that Westport Road was shut down for the event. In the mid-2000s the event was relocated to Hyde Park, and dubbed “OutFest”, allowing the Center to continue to focus on its community awareness mission.

While primarily a service organization, the LGCKC also focused on providing members of the lesbian and gay community a physical space in which to congregate. In 1993, the Center leased office space in the Westport Allen Center. By 1999, a “transitional office” called The Rainbow Center was launched on the second floor of the Supreme Bean Coffee House at 1615 W. 39th Street. In 2004 the Center moved into a space at 205 Westport Road, where it remained until July of 2008, when the LGCKC migrated to an exclusively online existence at www.lgckc.org where it remains as of this writing (Jan, 2011).

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The LGCCKC Collection was gifted to the LaBudde Special Collections in February 2010 by Dan Melton, former Treasurer and Development Officer of the organization. The collection contains a great deal of documentation related the early history of the Center, including Board minutes, Friends of the Community Center minutes, and a Board Notebook. In addition, there is a large amount of material related to Out in Westport and other outreach activities, and a good collection of Center newsletters is present as well.

Unexpectedly, the Collection is very strong in material from other organizations, e.g. brochures, newsletters, etc. This likely stems from the Center's role as a clearinghouse of information for the gay and lesbian community. In addition, there are a substantial number of commercial and activist publications, from the Kansas City area and across the United States. Many date from the late 1960s and early 1970s, and most are from the lesbian and feminist communities.
